Preparing For Cold And Stormy Weather

(NAPSI)-After a rough winter like last year's with its below-normal temperatures and record-breaking storms, many homeowners are taking a new look at shortcomings in their heating systems and possible solutions.

Sometimes the solution for chilly spots in your home is not a complete new system but adding supplemental heating.

At least 64 percent of homeowners agree they have at least one hot or cold spot making parts of their homes uncomfortable during certain times of the year.

INVERTER-driven split-ductless and split-ducted products can be a great solution. Mitsubishi Electric Cooling and Heating Solutions, a leader in providing eco-comfort systems, offers a variety of ways to alleviate hot and cold spots.

With the company's M-Series systems, homeowners have solutions for heat pump and cooling-only applications that accommodate single- or multi-zone installations requiring energy-efficient solutions and personalized comfort. All Mitsubishi Electric systems use environmentally friendly R410A refrigerant, and many systems feature an INVERTER-driven compressor to use energy more effectively.

The M-Series features enhanced indoor and outdoor units designed for maximum energy efficiency and limited or no ductwork.

Installing the new M-Series in the home can help homeowners save up to 40 percent on air-conditioning usage when compared to standard or conventional systems.

Several of the M-Series systems are ENERGY STAR-rated to help homeowners earn residential tax credits.

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (also known as the Stimulus Bill) is set to expire in December 2010 but homeowners may qualify for state and local residential tax credits after that. These vary depending on your location.

For details on the federal credits which can range up to $1,500, visit www.mehvac.com/taxcredit. To find out about state and local tax credits, visit www.dsireusa.org.

Is Your Home's Roof Ready For The Harsh Weather Ahead?

(NAPSI)-When it comes to protecting the value of your home and what's in it, think two words: your roof.

Your home's roof is its first line of defense against rain, snow, cold air and harsh weather in general. And so if you're smart, experts say, you'll want to check what kind of shape yours is in twice a year.

That means being on the look-out for missing shingles or deteriorated flashing (the metal that seals bends and joints on skylights, chimneys, etc.). More than 90 percent of roof damage occurs in these two areas, and catching it early can be key to preventing bigger problems.

Here are more hints that can help:

Knowing When To Inspect

Check your roof every spring after severe weather and every winter before the worst weather sets in.

What To Look For

- Examine the roof edge for damage from wind, rain or ice dams. The dams occur when water freezes and backs up under the roofing system.

- Inspect for signs of mold, algae and mildew, such as dark spots and discolored shingles. Inadequate or faulty shingle underlayment can be behind this.

- Look for blistering or peeling paint due to poor attic ventilation.

Roof Maintenance

Leaves, sticks and other debris can cause water to back up and flow under a roof, so clean out your gutters and roof drains regularly. Also, check that all gutters are securely fastened to the house and that downspouts are pointing away from your home.

What To Do If You Spot Damage

If your inspection reveals roof damage, work with professional roof contractors who are bonded, insured and use quality materials. They can help you prolong the life of your roof and keep you from having to spend money on costly future repairs.

A free service that helps homeowners find a qualified roofing contractor is available from North America's largest roofing manufacturer, GAF Materials Corporation. Call (888) LEAK-SOS or visit www.gaf.com.

Newer Appliances Can Offer Energy Savings

(NAPSI)-There's good news for those looking for ways to cut energy spending around the home. Experts say replacing older home appliances is the most practical and effective step a homeowner can take to reduce energy consumption.

For example, replacing an eight-year-old refrigerator, dishwasher and clothes washer with new appliances of average efficiency will save consumers about $95.00 per year in energy bills. In most cases, the savings over the life of the appliance will more than pay for the cost of the new appliance.

Cleaning Up On Savings

Replacing an eight-year-old clothes washer will save more than $60.00 in electricity costs and nearly 5,000 gallons of water per year. Additional energy can be saved through the following tips:

- Take advantage of your dishwasher's "eco" option that reduces water use, or use a no-heat air dry feature.

- Use load-size settings. If you are washing a small load of clothing, be sure to change the load setting. Use cold water settings whenever possible.

- Always clean the lint filter on the clothes dryer after each use. A clogged filter can reduce dryer performance.

A Cooler Way To Save

Energy consumption in refrigerators continued to decline in 2009 with new refrigerators using an average of 450 kWh per year, over 50 percent less than units made in 1990. These easy tips will help you save more money:

- Allow hot foods to cool before placing them in the refrigerator, and always cover foods that may release moisture in the refrigerator.

- Limit opening the refrigerator and freezer doors. Label foods or use clear food storage bags to easily identify foods.

If you are looking to purchase a new appliance, consider an ENERGY STAR model. Look for the ENERGY STAR label to identify energy-efficient products that will help you save on your energy bills without sacrificing the quality of the product. These appliances will help save 10-20 percent more energy than a non-ENERGY STAR model. Visit the ENERGY STAR website to find rebates or special offers available in your area. You may also find recycling incentives for the proper disposal of old products.

For more information on energy savings, visit www.aham.org/consumer.
